Kevin is a polyglot, entrepreneur, educator, and content creator dedicated to helping youth better express themselves and develop their own initiatives. Originally from Miami, Florida, Kevin attended high school at Phillips Exeter Academy and then went on to pursue East Asian Studies at Yale University. After graduating from Yale in 2020, Kevin founded ElevatEd, an education company that focuses on tutoring and college application support. When he's not working, he loves to breakdance and organize dance workshops for his local community to celebrate hip-hop culture.
